The defendant is a lawyer, and is charged with defrauding Mrs. Martha Priest out of bounty money and back pay, due her husband, who died in Andersonville prison, by the Government. Mrs. Priest alleges that defendant was employed to get an order for this money, and on obtaining it forged her indorsement on it, and also her mane to a receipt for the money; and further, that after obtaining the money in this matter, he refused to pay it to her on various frivolous pretexts. At the last hearing Mrs. Priest testified that she had never received any of this money from Trapp. Yesterday Herman Fox, a witness for defendant, testified that he had seen Trapp pay Mrs. Priest $100, and also several $5 bills. On his cross-examination he testified that he could not remember any other circumstance at the time of the alleged payment but the simple fact that the payment was made. The District-Attorney having ascertained that defendant's bail bond was insecure, owing to the bondsman having, since becoming bail, soid his real estate, the Commissioner decided that other bail must be substituted, and the defendant was given until to-day to procure a new bondsman. The furcher examination was then adjourned to Tuesday next, al 1 o'clock p. in.

THE PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY STOCK CASE

THE PACIFIC MAIL STEAMSHIP COMPANY STOCK CASE

—STITLEMENT OF THE SUIT.

Idma J. Genet egt, Meredith Howhed and others.

This case was reported on Thursday, and arose out of an alleged wrongful sale of 100 shares Pacific Mail Steamship Company stock at 50 during the panic of 1817. The stock had been pledged to them on ordinary stock notes payable on demand; but it was claimed that the notice to take up the note was too short to give the pledger time to redeem. Another important question was whether the damages were to be fixed by the difference between the price of sale (50) and the extreme price the stock touched before trial (over 275), or by some other rule. The case first went to the Special Term as an equity suit, and occupied nearly a week in trial, and was from there sent to the Circuit on the ground that the case was one for damages merely. At the Circuit it occupied the best part of three days; but at the last moment, when the evicence had all been put in, when the question of law had been fully discussed and the case summed up to the jury and the Judge ready to charge, it was announced that the case was "seitled."

the trial, and it was claimed on appeal that these confes-ions were not voluntary.

The principal exceptions to the Judge's charges were that the discover asked the Cenrt to instruct the jury that "when insanity is interposed as a defense, the affirmative of the issue is with the people, and they must establish the sanity of the prisoner at the time of the com-mission of the alleged crune, by a preponderance of evidence," and the Court refused to do so. The prisoner further asked the Court to charge that "intoxication, though no excuse for crime, may still be taken into consideration by the jury in determining the question of premeditated intent, and the jury may infer from the presence of intoxication the absence of the premeditation." This proposition the Court refused. That the Court effect in instructing the second juror, as it did, in response to his question—"How much premeditation is necessary to constitute the difference between the first and the second degree of murder." The juror should have been told that premeditation had nothing to do with murder in the second degree; that it was the difference and the only difference between the two degrees, and that, if he believed there was no premeditation in the act, but yet a deadly intent, then the crime was murder in the second degree. The Court erred in refusing to answer the question of a juror: "Is a person under delirium tremens of sound mind in the meaning of the statute?" It was submitted that the reply of the Court to this question was no answer at all. It tended obviously to mislead the juror, and to impress upon his mind that the law knows no difference between drunkenness and delirium tremens.

After the call the market rallied, under large purchases by the bears and statements that the contraction of legal tenders was to be stopped. The "pool in Erie" has ended without profit to its originators. A leading outside broker, who has been a heavy buyer for the pool, was unable to make the preliminary deposit demanded by the seller, and a large amount of the stock was sold for account of the broker and his principals. At the Second Board, prices were generally higher, and a good deal of buying done for an upward turn by parties supplied with fresh money from outside the usual circle of operators. New Tennessee 6s rose 2 per cent. Ohio Certificates 1. Canton Co. 2, Western Union 11, Quicksilver 21, Mariposa 1, and the Preferred 31. Atlantic Mail 1, New-York Central 21. Late in the day the market was off again, but closed steady at 571 258 for Erie, 941 for Fort Wayne, 70 for Michigan Southern, and 80 for Cleveland and Pitts-burgh. The market is so feverish that no quotations are trustworthy beyond the moment they are made. Money is 7 per cent among brokers, and paid freely.

There has been much disturbance in loans, and at the close of the day accounts were made up with difficulty in many cases. Certified checks have been demanded in a very large number of instances, and from houses of high credit, by parties delivering stocks. Congress will render a valuable service to the legitimate business of New-York if it would promptly amend the Banking law and prohibit absolutely the certification of checks. The system of certification is an abuse peculiar to New-York city. and is practiced mainly in the interest of speculators who by it are gaining facilities far in excess of what they are entitled to upon their credit or capital. The use of certified checks makes a daily addition to the volume of currency, which can be spared with advantage to all solvent people. Payment of checks in money would be troublesome to the banks and limit business in some quarters, but the financial condition of the city would be sounder than upon the present mode of proceeding. In commercial paper no change; best bills pass at 7 @ 8 per cent.

The Chicago Republican of Tuesday evening says:

The money market to day was without material change. Corrency is still very close, and deposits are light, but there is a less pressure than formerly, and the stringency is not so amparent. There is no change in the rates of discount. The bank rate is steady at 10 per cent per annum, but street rates range from 182 per cent per annum. Mortgage loans are steady at $20 per cent per annum. The market for Eastern exchange is still very firm, and rates have an upward tendency, but there is no quotable change. Round tots were sold among bankers at par, and counter rates ruled steady at 1-10-21-20 discount buying, and 1-20-21-10 premium selling.

The total Luxable property in California, as shown by the report of the Surveyor-General for the current year, is about $10,000.00, which is a gain of $7,000.000 over the previous year. The largest increase in any one county was in Butte-comorning to $2,500.000 because of the construction of the Marysville Railroad. Nevada County came next, with a gain of $1,000.000 because of the development of the quartz interest at Grass Valley. San Josapin added $82.000 to her wealth by the development of agriculture and the copper trade.
